Should the world's most renowned and only liberal arts university for the Deaf be renamed after the world's most renowned Deaf person in the annals of American Deaf History? Congress amended the charter and renamed the institute five times. The last two times was in 1954 and 1986, a 32 year gap. Congress could amend the charter of the institute to rename it as Clerc University. If done today, that would be a 33 year gap since 1986. A world renowned university named after a world renowned person for the same reason – DEAF GAIN.
